THE JANNEY CAR COUPLE.—A meeting of the Janney Car Coupling Company was held at the office of Col. Morton Marpe this morning, when propositions from several railroad companies were considered. An article taken from the Pittsburg Commercial was read at the meeting. The article says:

"On the 29th of April, 1873, Mr. E. H. Janney, of Alexandria, Va., took out letters patent for 'Janney's Combined Coupler and Buffer,' an invention which, notwithstanding the many couplers already in use, bids fair to supersede them all. The device had not long been known until it attracted the attention of railroad men and capitalists, and a practical trial on the Orange and Alexandria Railroad so fully demonstrated its utility and superiority that a joint stock company was organized under the style of the 'Janney Car Coupling Company of Alexandria, Va.," with Mr. Janney, the patentee, as President. The great satisfaction rendered on the above mentioned road by the coupler has led to its adoption on the Washington and Ohio Railroad, and the company are now about to equip that road with it throughout, on freight as well as passenger cars. Two other Southern roads, leading into Atlanta, Georgia, have also ordered the coupling for their cars. Indeed, wherever the invention has been brought to the notice of practical railroad men, it has been pronounced superior to any other coupler, and is winning its way to favor solely upon its merits.

The coupler may be briefly described as follows: The inventor has followed nature, taking for his model the spinal vertebrae. The coupler, when closed, resembles a section of the spinal column. It affords sufficient motion in all directions, without loss of distance. It has no lateral or longitudinal play, and therefore prevents the jarring and jamming of the cars, so damaging to the rolling stock and so unpleasant to passengers. There is simply a supple knuckle joint formed between the platforms, effectually preventing the swinging of the platforms in opposite directions, and making a seadier train than by any other coupler in use. It is much simpler in construction, and much stronger than any other couplers; adjusts itself to the unevenness of the track or difference in height of cars; does away with links and pins, and never pulls at an angle. It is, of course, an automatic coupler, and its use incurs no risk of life or limb. It can be coupled and uncoupled on the shortest curves, with the greatest facility, and in case the cars leave the track the coupling will remain."

FOURTH WARD RADICALS.—The radicals of the 4th Ward met at the colored Old Fellows' hall last night to organize a club for the spring campaign. A small number only were present. John Seaton presided and A. T. Harris was secretary. The chairman having stated the object of the meeting, said that as he had served as president of the club for the last two years, he could not consent to a re-nomination.

Many persons were then put in nomination for the presidency, but they all declined except Charles Seales and William Claggett, the latter of whom was elected, receiving ten votes to Seales' nine.

Seales was then nominated for vice-president, but asked that his name be withdrawn. John Madella thought some of the offices in the club should be filled by white men.

Seaton said six white men were present, of whom three had been nominated for offices but they had withdrawn their names, and the club had no power to compel them to serve.

Seales was then elected vice-president and L. W. Windsor secretary, and after a prolonged debate, R. B. Hopkins, L. W. Windsor and William Miller were appointed a paid committee, whose duty shall be to see that every colored voter in the Ward shall be registered.

Wm. Miller then offered the following resolution, which was finally laid on the table:

"Having assembled in the city of Alexandria on the 1st of May, 1874, in conformity with a timely patriotic call reflecting the sentiments of the Republicans of the 4th Ward in the city of Alexandria, and believing the time is at hand when an open and fearless expression of sentiment, opinion and purpose is urgently demanded, therefore, be it

"Resolved, That in view of our present political condition, our relations to the national government and the people of the city of Alexandria, we do this day, with proud satisfaction, unfurl the brilliant and glorious banner of the Republican party, and earnestly appeal to every true and patriotic man in the city to rally to its support, and that Mr. Allen C. Harmon be endorsed by the 4th Ward for a candidate for Mayor of Alexandria."

The meeting then adjourned until next Friday night, when delegates will be elected to the convention called for by the 3rd Ward to nominate a candidate for Mayor.

The express, baggage car, coach and sleeper were thrown down an embankment. The express and baggage cars were badly broken, but the coaches were not much damaged. Two passengers, one from Baltimore, were slightly injured. Conductor Rudd, baggage master Keyes, and sleeping car conductor Carlisle were injured severely, but it is thought not seriously. PROPOSED NEW MARKET.—The country people who attend the city market have become so much dissatisfied with the accommodations afforded them there and the tax assessed upon them that they have instituted measures for buying a lot of ground on the upper end of King street and establishing a market house there. They say that the new market house affords them no shade, and that the butter they bring here becomes oil under the influence of the hot sun which shines upon them and which also withers their vegetables. If they do not succeed in obtaining a lot in the western end of the city they contemplate leasing the lot of Mr. James Green, corner of Lee and Cameron streets, upon which the necessary sheds are already erected.

The Latest News of the Overflow.

MEMPHIS, May 8.—The following information concerning the overflow is gleaned from the officers of boats arriving last night. The rise in the St. Francis river, which set in a few days since, has overflowed the banks, and in two or three places plantations under cultivation have been drowned out. There is but little destruction in this valley, and planters are hopeful of the water soon running off, and of their being able to re-w-planting. This rice has broken the levee in several places near the mouth of the river, including Jefferson's and St. Clair's, near Island No. 63, and threatens several other levees at Helena and Friar's points. The White river is inside its banks down to Augusta, and below there. Planters are yet hopeful of being able to make crops. On the lower Arkansas the water is off all the plantations except Hawling's, and the planters are at work.
